That 3% Looked Like A Mountain Last Week, But It Ain't So Big

(By The United Press)

The new Kentucky sales tax has now been "on" for a week, but before it went on it provoked the biggest round of dizzy doings around Fulton since Casey Jones left to go to work in St. Louis.

It wasn't the 3%, man, it was the tax. Like a fever. Beat it if it kills you. Buy now for next fall. Buy now for next winter. Buy!

In the week before July 1st, local merchants in many cases did the biggest business in years; one of Fulton's larger stores maintained that its pre-July 1st days exceeded any Christmas eve on record. Buyers swarmed all over the place to save a puny 3% when ordinarily they wouldn't lift an eyebrow if any store offered a 10% reduction across the board.

A grocery store selling soft drinks raised its 6c price by 6 2/3% to a dime, blaming the tax, (which isn't even collectible on a 10c sale); a neighboring weekly paper, also blaming the sales tax, raised its subscription price by 20% and graciously announced it would pay the 3% sales tax itself. The County Fiscal Court, noting a reduction a certain vending machine and occupational licenses, stepped in, enacted a tax of its own (it is empowered to do so) and raised prices instead of lowering them.

Tennessee, too, (at least Tennessee businessmen) benefitted by the Kentucky tax. At least one South Fulton restaurant operator who has been absorbing the Tennessee 3% tax himself for the past 9 years began collecting it; a feed and seed store on the Tennessee side also seized the occasion to add the State tax to his sales. The feeling among certain individuals in Tennessee seemed to be that if heretofore the enforcement may have been lax, now that Kentucky has it too, the time has come to crack down.

And when a News subscriber, home from California on a visit, walked in to renew her subscription and found she didn't have to pay the tax on account of out-of-State delivery, she reversed the field with "shucks, you're lucky. —In California we pay 4%."

Then came July 1st, and everything settled down to a walk again.

A NEWS survey to study general reaction—good or bad—to the new tax showed that the reaction died quickly.

"Everyone's been expecting it so long that it just seems natural," said one man as he paid his first sales tax fee.

That the tax was almost unquestionably accepted was indicated by the lack of comment about it in the downtown area Friday morning.

Said one salesman, "There's no trouble, no squawking; everyone's taking it as a matter-of-fact thing, which it is."

The most noticeable effect of the tax stemmed from the clerking personnel of the stores as they sought tax charts for each sale. "It (the tax) needs getting used to," said one employee.

Crutchfield Minister's Wife Shot To Death At Her Home Near Fulgham

Rev. Ira Henderson Says He Accidentally Shot Wife With Rifle

Mrs. Ronelta Henderson, 36, wife of a Baptist minister, was shot to death at her home near Fulgham Tuesday night at 6:10 and her husband, the Rev. Ira Henderson, about 38, admitted the accidental firing of the shot.

Hickman County Sheriff Curtis Vaughan said, however, that the shooting is still under investigation.

The sheriff said a .22 caliber rifle bullet entered Mrs. Henderson's head behind the left ear.

He said Mr. Henderson, pastor of the Crutchfield Baptist Church in Fulton County, gave this account of the shooting.

The minister bought a box of 22 caliber short cartridges Tuesday and when he came home late in the afternoon, he loaded the rifle in his bedroom, intending to engage in target practice.

As he went through the kitchen, the minister was quoted as saying, the rifle accidentally discharged. He saw his wife start to fall and rushed to her, catching her in his arms. He said she died instantly.

Mr. Henderson telephoned Sheriff Vaughan and reported the tragedy.

The two children, Terry Don, 6, and Connie, 10, told Sheriff Vaughan they did not see the shooting or hear the discharge of the rifle. They said they heard their father scream, and rushed into the kitchen.

Besides her husband and the two children at home, Mrs. Henderson is also survived by another daughter, Mrs. William R. Campbell of Clinton, her mother, Mrs. Waltis Green of Clinton; and a brother, Moss Green of Fulton.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the Crutchfield Baptist Church, Burial, under direction of Hopkins, Brown and Buck Funeral Home of Clinton, will be in the Clark Cemetery.

Deacons of the Crutchfield Baptist Church will serve as pallbearers. They are Ira Sadler, Charles Sadler, James Tuck, Lewis Patrick, Lester Patrick and J. C. Jackson.

The Hendersons live between Clinton and Fulgham on the Mayfield Highway.

Dr. V. A. Jackson, Hickman County coroner, who went to the scene with Sheriff Vaughan, said no coroner's verdict in the case has been given.

Mr. Henderson, who is about 38, and his wife are natives of Hickman County. He had held pastorates in Arkansas before coming to Hickman County seven or eight years ago.

Mrs. Henderson was born Nov. 4, 1923 in Hickman County. She was a member of the Crutchfield Baptist Church and was employed by Polynesian Arts at Mayfield.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of THE CIVIL WAR DAY-BY-DAY (Material is from publication of exactly one hundred years ago; original wording from references in the Library of Congress, Washington. Reporting in the papers was usually very one-sided; we seek to be fair in coverage and preserve a national balance. . . . ED.)

BY WILLIAM H. McHENRY

For over a year before the beginning of the Civil War, the Southern states had been seriously training their militia units. In the North, there was no such seriousness. Hard work would wait until after the First Battle of Bull Run.

In Jersey City, the Second Regiment had a parade on June 2. The event was important enough to draw newspaper space. The regiment was composed of the following companies:

Washington Guards	19 muskets.
Independence Guard	21 muskets
Greenville Guard	13 muskets
Montgomery Guard	17 muskets
Chase Light Guard	28 muskets
Gregory Guard	12 muskets
Total	110 muskets

The Regiment was in command

The Seventh New York Regiment went to camp for a few days, using the new railroad on Staten Island for themselves and their visitors. The members of the Regiment gathered with their tents, then "with a great show of skill, and to the aping of a drum, set up tents." Theoretically there was no drinking, for regulations forbade intoxicating liquors, but it was noted that "every man was well-supplied with bottles labeled 'Hair oil,' 'Liniment,' 'Tooth wash' and 'Cholera Medicine.'"

Reports during June showed that the men were having a wonderful time, and so were the hundreds of visitors to their camp. There was little mention of any drilling or target-practice.

A man named Hopper, a member of the Gregory Guards of Jersey City ate twenty hard-boiled eggs on Friday last from the effects of which he died on the day following. Physicians certified that the eggs formed a hard substance in his stomach rendering digestion impossible.

Baseball was popular. In a friendly game between Buffalo and Niagara, the Buffalo Excelsior won 50 to 19. The Excelsiors made 24 runs in the fifth inning.

THE PIKE'S PEAK EXPRESS said that Denver City held a mass meeting to draw up "measures of defence in case the city is attacked by Indians."

Crepe Myrtle As Southern As Magnolia And Boxwood

Crepe myrtle is as truly Southern as magnolia and boxwood. Brought to this country by early settlers, the crepe myrtle was found to be ideally suited to our Southern climate and soils. Because of their colorful blooms during long hot summers when little else was in flower, they soon became favorites—gracing many a homestead throughout the South. Our forefathers knew only the lavender and purple colors, but now we have also red, pink, and white.

My first recollection of crepe myrtle illustrates how hardy the plant is. As a Mississippi farm boy, I recall a huge clump at an old homestead where the house had long since gone, leaving the clump in the middle of the field. Every Spring before plowing time, Dad would cut the huge sprouts down to Mother's dismay. But without fail it would sprout back from the stump and still be in beautiful color at cotton-picking time. Dad finally succeeded in killing the stump by burning a brush pile on top of it.

USES: Since it is plagued by very few pests, crepe myrtle should be used more widely in different ways. It can be trained as a tree or bushy shrub and used as specimen plantings, borders, or in groups. In groups or borders, more use of harmonizing color combinations (such as red and white) should be considered.

HERE ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT STEPS TO REALLY BEAUTIFUL CREPE MYRTLES.

SUNNY LOCATION is best. Heavy shading will not only reduce growth and flowering but cause more trouble with diseases such as sooty mold on leaves and powdery mildew on flower buds and youth growth.

SOILS AND PLANTING: Crepe

myrtle will grow in almost any soil that is fairly well drained and properly prepared before planting. Dig a fairly large hole—24 inches across and 18 inches deep. Mix thoroughly with soil put back into the hole, about one-fourth to one-third by volume, some form of organic matter such as rotted manure, peat moss, or well rotted leaf mold. Set plants same depth they grew in the nursery and prune back at least one-third to one-half the top. It won't hurt to cut them back to within a foot of the ground. Leave "rim" of soil around plant, and water thoroughly the first year.

FERTILIZER: Combination of abundant fertility and heavy pruning each year is the secret of profuse flowering. Fertilizer is best put on each spring before growth begins and again in June. An 8-8-8 or 5-10-10 is good for most soils. On sandy soils apt to be low in potash, use something like 5-10-15. It is believed that potash is essential for more intense flower color.

PRUNING: Crepe myrtle flowers are produced on new growth. Plants which make only a little growth each year will have only a few flowers. Heavy pruning is usually needed, as well as fertilizing, to get lots of new growth each year. Prune any time in winter or early spring. If compact, base-branching shrubs are desired, prune back to near the ground line (6 to 12 inches) every year or every other year. If a small tree is desired train to a single trunk or multi-trunk (three to five trunks) and allow branches to develop at desired height—usually 6 feet or so above ground. Then branches can be pruned back part way each year to stimulate vigor.

Castro Should Get A Fight On This One

We don't know what Castro's thinking is, at the Cuban Premier throws insults, taunts and confiscations of U. S. property in the faces of the U. S. these days, but one thing seems to be clear: Castro is either a fool or he has the cunning backing of the Soviet Union to rely on in case he goes too far.

In either case, U. S. citizens are losing and have lost millions of dollars in hotel, refinery and business investments in Cuba during the past year, and cannot but be facing a day of reckoning with Castro and his bearded battalions. More and more people are wondering why the U. S. Government continues to bide its time and let Castro get away with what he is doing.

We don't propose to have an answer to that problem, but there is one problem that we may have to face in Cuba that would seem to demand immediate and drastic action if it ever comes to a head: The U. S. Navy has a major deep-water base at Guantanamo on the southeast tip of Cuba. If Castro should threaten this base, we're all for sending a couple of U. S. Airborne Divisions to Cuba within 24 hours and wiping Castro and his crew off the North American continent.

Pennies From Heaven

There seem to still be a few diehards crying in their beer over passage of the "Veteran's Bonus - Sales Tax" act, approved by the people of Kentucky last fall.

Strangely enough, some of the biggest tears over the sales tax are being shed by veterans who insisted and demanded a bonus. Apparently they thought the money was coming from heaven.

SERMONETTE OF THE WEEK

Are Politics Dirty?

By Michael J. Howlett,
Vice President
Sun Steel Company

THE GREEKS had a word for those who avoided public affairs—that word was "Idiot." They also had a law that every man had to take one side or another in a public uprising. They can teach us something about politics.

To use the word "politics" as a label for something evil and dirty is extremely unwise and dangerous. Such an attitude strikes at the very roots of our country. Democratic government cannot work without people who are willing to engage in politics and in public services.

A TRAGIC viewpoint was reported by a public opinion poll a few years ago. A majority of adults interviewed said they hoped that their children would never become politicians. This presupposes that all political activity is rotten. No view could be more disastrous to America.

OUR WORLD does not tolerate a vacuum. This is as true in the affairs of men as in the realm of physics. When people start leaving politics to the other fellow, willing usurpers will easily be found to fill the gap. If we do not strive through group action to give life and vitality to our convictions, we can be sure that men with base motives will take our place and advance their own convictions.

AS INTELLIGENT citizens we have a duty to our fellow men. We must bring into the political arena our deepest and finest spiritual convictions. For when the Christian virtues are not translated into action, souls are lost and the foundations of good society crumble. If society is to be improved it must draw upon religious truths. Society can do this only if each one of us is active as an individual in political affairs.

We can influence politics in two ways: first by individual action and secondly by group action. In fact to be most effective as individuals we must learn to work with others. Just as no man is an island to himself, so no man or group say to another, "I have no need of you." We get things done in groups, and this requires sacrifice on the part of each of us.

Both good and bad influences work on a political party. Which shall win out depends upon the numbers of high-minded individuals who join the party ranks and seek to direct its actions and policies.

We cannot justify political laziness by saying we dislike the people with whom we must associate. We may not like all the members of the human race, but can we resign from it?

To be interested in politics is a matter of survival.

A French philosopher once wrote that "As soon as public service ceases to be the chief business of the citizens so that they would rather serve with their money than with their money than with their persons, the State is not far from its fall." This is as true today as it was in the past.

THE ANSWER to our political problems is more political action—not less. Politics is an exciting adventure. It is an education. It is a sharing in the great task of improving our world.

James Burden, 25, husband of the former Sara Wade of Fulton, was instantly killed in an auto crash about noon Sunday in Union City. The accident occurred at the edge of Union City when Burden attempted to pass another and nosed into a ditch. When the car overturned both Burden and his companion, Vernon Gilley of Booneville, Miss., were thrown clear of the car.

H. A. Wolgram, 61, employee of Illinois Central System for thirty-six years, died Monday in the Illinois Central hospital in Paducah, as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident six miles north of Paris, Tenn., on the Fulton-Paris highway about 6:30 o'clock Sunday night.

Fred Byars, 26 years of age, suffered a broken neck while doing some carpenter work at a house being built on the corners of Cedar and Vine streets. He slipped on some papers spread on the floor. He was taken to the Fulton Hospital.

Sunday at 8 p. m. 45 Obion County 4-H Honor club members, adult leaders and agents left on an educational tour to Washington D. C. Mr. and Mrs. Knox Daniels and Mrs. Leon Dixon, three outstanding leaders in 4-H work, are attending as adult leaders.

These members have worked hard over the past few years earning money for the trip. They have been engaged in bake sales, card sales and pencil sales. They have also earned money by feeding organizations different type meals. One of their primary courses of income came from their booth at the Obion County Fair. Even though all this money was earned by the club there is still some of the expense they must bear themselves.

Many different methods have been used to earn individual expense money. Some of the honor club members are doing different type of work on neighbors' farms to earn money, others are baby-sitting while still others are working in stores in town. Of course, these are just a few of the many ways these 4-H'ers are receiving money for the trip. This indicates that these members have an interest in this trip and realize the opportunity to be able to be engaged in such an educational trip. The schedule for the trip is filled with interesting and exciting sights.

It does sound like a wonderful week in store for this group. The members from South Fulton making the trip are Diane Gunter, Jenny Lou Hardy, Linda Thorpe, Linda Rogers, Gene Hardy, John Burrow, Don Gray, John Hughes, Pat Dowdy, Leon Faulkner, Jimmy Sturges, Ray Bruce and Rowland Fowler.

The group will stay at the Lincolnia Motel in Alexandria, Va.

Last Tuesday at noon a large group was at our house for a birthday dinner, when suddenly the lights went out and the fans went off. We discovered two bedrooms filled with smoke. I was in favor of calling the fire department, but we soon discovered that the motor had burned out in a big fan in one of the bedrooms.

I'll never laugh or criticize again when someone called for hte fire truck after a motor of some sort burns out. I almost did, myself.

The other night a tourist came by the station and asked Daddy if he would like a 'coon to eat. He said that he had just ran over one. He got out of the car to show Daddy the animal, and it was then discovered that the 'coon was still alive.

Daddy took the 'coon, bathed it in ointment, and later Earl Austin gave it some fruit to eat. Policeman E. W. Bethel found a box to put the animal in, and by morning the 'coon was well on its way to recovery.

Was talking with Hall Allen, night editor of the Sun-Democrat, one night recently, and he informed me that the Kentucky Historical Society plans to put up a new marker on Highway 45 at the road leading to Camp Beauregard.

I was amazed when Daddy informed me I was driving an average of fifty miles a day. Most days I only drive to The News, to the radio station, out for coffee and lunch and at night take Daddy's supper. Have you ever figured up how many miles a day, you drive? It will surprise you, too, most

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Simon and little daughter from Chattanooga arrived here Saturday morning for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ace Hale out south of town. Bill returned home Sunday, but Mrs. Simon (the former June Coplen), and the baby will remain here for the rest of the week.

June has also been a guest in our home this week.

Johnny Jones is working these days at Pen Hook, Tenn., which is 15 miles from the nearest telephone. Pen Hook's population is four people. From what Johnny says, its quite some place.

Stanley Jones and Ralph Williams of Dyersburg flew to St. Louis Friday morning in Ralph's private plane. They spent several days in St. Louis attending the ball games.

It is so nice to have Mr. J. O. Lewis back at work out at Radio Station WFUL. Mr. Lewis, as you know, underwent surgery at Memphis back a short time ago, and just this past week returned to his duties at the station. He's such a nice gentleman, it is a pleasure to have him around.

Farm News, Meetings, Events

(Ed's note: the following information, supplied THE NEWS by the USDA, ASC, nearby County Agents and agricultural agencies will be of special interest to progressive farmers in the Ken-Tenn area):

JULY 21 REFERENDUM

Just who is eligible to vote in the July 21 referendum on 1961 wheat marketing quotas was today explained by the Chairman of the Obion County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

According to C. C. Vaughn, any grower in a commercial wheat State who will produce more than 15 acres of wheat as grain in 1961 will be eligible to cast a ballot in the quota vote except those who are taking part in the feed wheat program. Growers who will have smaller wheat acreages in 1961 are not eligible to vote, since the wheat from such farms would not be subject to marketing penalties under a quota program.

"Excess" upland cotton of the 1960 crop will be subject to a marketing quota penalty of 19.4 cents per pound, Mr. C. C. Vaughn, Chairman of the Obion County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has announced. This represents 50 percent of the parity price as of June 15, the rate directed by the controlling legislation.

Under a cotton marketing quota program, a farmer who does not comply with the cotton acreage allotment established for the kind of cotton grown on his farm is subject to a penalty on his farm marketing excess. The cotton crop from such a farm is also ineligible for price support.

Growers approved marketing quotas for the 1960 crop of upland cotton in a referendum on December 15, 1959.

RYE SUPPORT RATE IN COUNTY IS $1.03

The price support rate on 1960 crop rye in Fulton County has been set at $1.03 per bushel for rye grading No. 2 or better or grading No. 3 on the factor of test weight only, Roy Bard of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office announced today.

As in past years, the rye price support program will be carried out through purchase agreements or loans on farm-stored or warehouse-stored grain. Support will be available from harvesttime through January 31, 1961. Loans will mature April 30, 1961.

Farmers interested in storing price-support rye in a terminal warehouse may obtain information about terminal rates at the county ASC Office. These rates reflect the freight and handling charges needed to get the rye to terminal markets.

CONSERVATION PROGRAM

C. C. Vaughn, Chairman of the Obion County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, today reminded farmers that the 1960 Agricultural Conservation Program provides several instances where the government shares with the farmer the cost of conservation practices requiring the application of lime or fertilizer. Although a soil test is not mandatory for most practices it is strongly recommended in every case, Vaughn said.

ACP practices which should be preceded by a soil test include establishment of permanent pasture, additional vegetative cover in a crop rotation, sod waterways, application of liming materials on farmland and others. A soil test is mandatory for fertilization and liming in connection with the improvement of an established permanent vegetative cover.

MARKETING QUOTA PENALTY RATES SET FOR 1960 - CROP "EXCESS" COTTON

Marketing quota penalty rates on "excess" cotton of the 1960 crop of upland cotton were announced today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The penalty rate on upland cotton is 19.4 cents per pound.

Controlling legislation directs that the marketing quota penalty rate for upland cotton be 50 percent of the parity price per pound of cotton effective as of June 15 of the calendar year in which the cotton is produced. The parity price for upland cotton as of June 15 was $8.89 cents per pound.

Growers approved marketing quotas for the 1960 crop of upland cotton in a referendum last December 15.

When cotton marketing quotas are in effect, a farmer who does not comply with the cotton acreage established for his farm is subject to a penalty on his farm marketing excess. The cotton crop from the farm is also ineligible for price support under Commodity Credit Corporation programs.

Local Negro Shot To Death

At a hearing Tuesday morning at Hickman, Paul Malone, 56-year-old colored resident of Fulton who was arrested Friday on a charge of homicide, was given until Friday morning at 10 to decide whether to be tried before County Judge John Bondurant at that time, or to waive to the grand jury.

Judge Bondurant said that if he prefers to waive preliminary hearing, Malone will be bound over to the grand jury with bond.

The local colored man, who is employed by Buck's Drive-In Liquor Store here, is charged with the fatal shooting of his nephew, John E. Malone, 32, who up until a short time ago was employed by the City Drug Co. here.

The younger Malone was shot to death with a pistol at the Malone home at 211 Anderson Street Friday night about 11 o'clock.

The officers who investigated the case were E. W. Bethel, J. B. Lee, Chief of Police Roy Nethery and Coroner Walter Voepel.

Diary of Doin's

(Items gathered along Fulton's merryway for your pleasure and your scrapbook)

There were many visitors in the Fulton area over the long July 4th holiday weekend. While some family groups preferred to remain home and take it easy there were others who had outings at the lakes. All in all, it was a nice, quite weekend here with no tragedies being reported.

Mrs. Ruth Scott returned home last Wednesday after a week's visit in Tulsa, Okla., with her daughter and son-in-law, Peggy and Bill Hussey. Peggy and Bill flew Mrs. Scott home in their private plane, the trip taking only two hours and 27 minutes. The Husseys returned to Tulsa Friday. Mrs. Scott said that her trip to Tulsa, via bus to Memphis and commercial plane the rest of the way, took a whole day.

Miss Beverly Lacewell Becomes Bride Of Eugene Miller June 26

Agatha Voelkel

On Sunday afternoon, the twenty-sixth of June, nineteen hundred and sixty, Miss Beverly Lacewell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dorris R. Lacewell, became the bride of Eugene Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Brooks of Atlanta, Georgia.

The wedding was at three thirty o'clock in the Chapel Hill Methodist Church with the Reverend Dave Hilliard, minister of the church officiating and using an impressive double ring ceremony. A large assembly of relatives and friends of the young couple and their parents attended the wedding.

The stately young bride wore a beautiful formal wedding gown of pure silk taffeta and imported Chantilly lace. The closely fitted bodice featured a portrait neckline which was edged with applied lace motifs beaded with tiny seed pearls. The long sleeves ended ed with points at her hands. A long row of lace covered buttons fastened the back of the bodice. The voluminous taffeta skirt, worn over hoops, had appliqued diamond shaped lace motifs; added fullness in the back developed into a fan shaped train. Her illusion veil fell from a Mary of Scots cap of lace edged with seed pearls and further ornamented with large pearls which formed a border around the entire cap. She wore pearl drop earrings and carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis centered with a large white orchid. The bouquet was attached to a lace covered Bible. Tiny satin ribbons further ornamented the bouquet.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Bobby McConnell. Bridesmaids were Miss Alma Jean Green, Miss Martha Weaks, and Miss Nancy Lacewell, a cousin of the bride.

Ed Ray Miller, a cousin of the groom was the ringbearer.

L. W. Greer served the groom as best man. Ushers were David Randol, cousin of the groom, Harry Lacewell, cousin of the bride, Bobby McConnell, Larry Alexander, and Neal Rawls. Acolytes were Kenneth Lacewell, brother of the bride and Jerry Lacewell a cousin of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Lacewell were hosts at a small reception at their home for the bridal party, families and out of town guests.

Late in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Miller left for their wedding trip after which they will make their home in Dresden, Tennessee. For traveling Mrs. Miller wore a blue embroidered organza dress with gathered skirt, fitted bodice and brief sleeves. Her accessories matched her dress and she wore the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

Burgess - Robey Wedding Solemnized

On Saturday, July second at 10:30 a. m. in the presence of their immediate families and a few close friends, Miss Beverly Ann Burgess became the bride of Louis Robey at her home at 203 West Street.

The simple but impressive double ring service was performed by Rev. Gerald Bland of Martin, a close friend of the groom, before the attractively decorated fire place. The mantle held lighted tall white candles and a lovely floral arrangement of white gladiolas and chrysanthemums. Background music of "Because," "The Lord's Prayer," "Ave Maria," and Lohengrin's wedding march were played before and during the service.

Mrs. Forrest McAllister was the bride's only attendant. Gerald Warren served the groom as best man.

For her wedding, Miss Burgess wore a Dior original of glazed cotton in soft blue print with shoes of dyed to match kid and a tiny white half hat. Her corsage was a purple orchid surrounded by white baby mums.

Mrs. McAllister wore powder blue with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Following their wedding the couple left for a short trip to Lookout Mountain and upon their return home will reside with the bride's mother while their home is under construction.

Explorer To Go On Expedition

An Explorer from the Four Rivers Council area may have the opportunity to go on an expedition to the Arctic, it was announced today by the Council.

The announcement came as a result of a new arrangement by the Boy Scouts of America with the government to send a Scout with a scientific expedition, as Dr. Paul Siple and Richard Chappell have represented Scouting on past expeditions.

According to Elbert Johns, Scout Executive, of Four Rivers Council, a local Scout between the ages of 17 and 19 will be nominated to serve as a junior scientific aide at Camp Century in Greenland next fall and winter. The young man selected must be physically qualified to live in Arctic conditions where temperatures will range as low as sixty degrees below zero. He must also be a high school graduate.

Mr. Johns said that the council must forward its application and supporting material of its best candidate to the Boy Scout regional office by August 10, 1960.

Fishing Derby To Be Sept. 1

The second annual Kentucky Lake Fall Fishing Derby, offering $5,000 in prizes, will be held Sept. 1-Nov. 15, according to James Houser, president of the derby association, composed of resort operators and other businessmen of the lake area.

The State Department of Public Relations and Fish and Wildlife Resources are aiding in promotion of the derby.

The prizes are divided between two classes—the open and the tourist. Any customer of a participating merchant is eligible for the open class after obtaining an eligibility card. Any registered guest at a participating hotel, motel, resort, camp or other tourist accommodation is eligible for the tourist class. There is no entry fee for the derby. Fishermen must establish eligibility before the fish they plan to enter is caught.

Participants must abide by Kentucky fishing laws and must hold a Kentucky fishing license.

Fish must be caught by angling—no nets or trotlines. Angling is defined to mean bait casting, fly casting, trolling, still fishing and jig fishing.

Complete rules and regulations, as well as accommodations, may be obtained by writing the Kentucky Lake Fishing Derby Association, P. O. Box 810, Paducah.

PARASITES OF CATTLE

Cattlemen have been concerned with parasites both external and internal for many years. The control is costly and sometimes dangerous. Pesticides which were used a few seasons ago are now on the black list as far as the Federal Food and Drug Administration is concerned for use on dairy cows and in barns. After a thorough study of this situation and reading reports from the E. D. A. and specialists in the field, we can now tell just what can be done in this respect.

In a report by Lee Brandsma, Pet Milk Company Research Laboratory we have the following information as to use of pesticides and I quote: "1. Insecticides which are safe for spraying cows and for other uses in and around the dairy barn, provided that utensils and the drawn milk are adequately protected: Pyrethrins; Allethrin; MGK R-11 (repellent); Piperonyl Butoxide; MGK 264; Tabutrex (repellent). 2. "Insecticides which may be used for fly control around dairy barns, provided the insecticides are not sprayed directly onto the cows or on the feed trough and provided utensils and the drawn milk are protected adequately. Diazinon - as a spray, bait or cords; Malathion-as a spray or bait; Chlorthion-spray or bait; Dipterex-as a bait only; Methoxychlor-as a spray only." 3. "Certain pesticides may be used on growing crops intended for dairy cattle use provided the amounts remaining on the feed do not exceed approved tolerance levels. When the pesticides are used according to label directions, crops sprayed with the following are within legal tolerance levels and considered safe: Methoxychlor; Rotenone; Pyrethrum (Pyrethrin-Piperonyl Butoxide); Sabadilla; Ryania; Malathion. It is extremely important that the above recommendations be followed very closely. Spraying dairy cattle with any insecticide except those listed under NUMBER 1 above will cause the insecticide to appear in the milk. This milk could be condemned by the F. D. A." Let's all do a good job on this and protect our milk market.

On worming cattle and calves use Phenothiazine as directed by the Veterinarian or label. If milk cows are drenched with Phenothiazine do not save the milk for at least 5 (five) days. The drench will color the milk for about this period.

Yes parasites can cost you money, however the control of them can also be very expensive if caution is not used. Be label wise when using any parasite control.

Kentucky Scores Victory Separating State Boards

An outstanding legislative accomplishment was achieved by the Kentucky Affiliate recently with the signing of a new bill by the Governor, separating the State Board of Cosmetology from the State Barber's Board.

Kentucky will now have two separate boards, one for each of the groups. The new Cosmetology Board will be appointed in July 1960.

The Kentucky Affiliate's Legislative Committee consisted of Chairman Herlie Nave, Clarence Moore and Kentucky's President W. R. Litteral, who with the help of Kentucky Unit Presidents and members secured the new legislation after a concerted and well planned program for the advancement of cosmetology in the state.

Darnells Take Jobs In Catlettsburg

Bearl Darnell, former Fulton County school superintendent who was the center of a bitter factional dispute, has been hired as an elementary school supervisor at Catlettsburg, Ky.

His wife, indicted here for eavesdropping during the Fulton controversy, has been hired as a first grade teacher there.

The Fulton board twice voted to fire Darnell but he insisted on staying until his four-year term expired Friday.

The grand jury action against Mrs. Gladys Darnell came after she allegedly crouched beneath the floor of a room in which a faction of the school board opposed to her husband was meeting. Catlettsburg Supt. Thomas McCoy announced the employment of the Darnells on Wednesday of last week.

Summers Becomes Fulton County School Chief On Friday, July 1

The Fulton County Board of Education has recognized Robert L. Summers as superintendent, apparently ending a two-year factional fight over the post.

Keys to the superintendent's office and school-system records were handed to Summers at a board meeting Friday night. Those board members opposed to Summers, a majority, said they would "go along with Summers" in the interest of harmony and efficient operation of the school system.

At the same time, however the board majority indicated it would oppose Summers should he recommend renewal of the contract of Assistant Superintendent J. C. McClellan. The assistant superintendent's contract expired Thursday and Board Chairman Earl Taylor said the board majority wants a new assistant superintendent.

McClellan, City school superintendent before a merger of the City and County systems three years ago and a principal in the School Board squabble has said he would resist any move by the board to oust him without cause. He has cited the State's teacher-tenure law, which prohibits the firing of a teacher without cause after he has served in a position a specified period.

Taylor said the board majority believes that assistant superintendents are not included in the tenure law.

Summers, formerly of Muhlenberg County and a junior-high-school physical education teacher and coach at Hickman last year, succeeds Bearl Darnell the other principal in the School Board dispute. Darnell, whose contract expired Thursday, has been employed as an elementary-school supervisor in the Catlettsburg City system. He is a veteran of more than 30 years in school administration in Western Kentucky.

A split developed in the School Board membership over administrative policies shortly after the City and County systems were merged. Darnell, who was County Superintendent, was made superintendent of the new system, and McClellan was appointed assistant superintendent.

In the November, 1958, election, an anti-Darnell faction favoring City school-system policies was elected. Several attempts were made to oust Darnell, but the courts ruled he was entitled to hold office until his contract expired.

Before expiration of Darnell's contract, the board majority named Summers as Darnell's successor. Shortly thereafter, one member of the board majority was declared ineligible to serve and his replacement joined the Darnell minority. This shifted the majority voting power back to the Darnell supporters.

The new board majority at first refused to recognize Summers' appointment and named Cayce High School Principal Joe Ross to succeed Darnell. Ross, however, declined the job and the entire board then agreed to accept Summers.

The State Board of Education previously had informed the Fulton board that Summers had a valid contract and warned that unless harmony was restored the members would be cited to show cause why they should not be removed from office.

"IGNORANCE AGAIN"

My two recent articles on the ignorance of so many of us who refuse to believe folk knowledge have attracted more attention. I believe, than any similar two in recent years. Many people have told me or written me that they had often thought how much ignorant people knew but had just never said so. That is one of the purposes of these articles: to say what a great many people have thought but did not take time to write down. That is about all a folklorist is, anyway, just a PUT-TER-DOWNER.

Folk knowledge or imagined knowledge if more highly regarded by the folk than the most abstruse learning is regarded by the scholar. The scholar often knows that yearning is wholly a relative thing, and he certainly knows that what is acceptable now may soon be superseded by greater knowledge. But the folk believe and know that what they think is the real thing, not a matter of temporary knowledge. Some new medicine, for example, is, avowedly, an experiment that only the wildest-eyed scientists would regard as the last word in medical research; but the teas of Grandma, the pills made by some neighborhood quack, or even some magic worked by wart-removers or curers of thrash just remain permanent, as if foreordained.

The Fulton News, Thursday, July 7, 1960

In other spheres besides medicine this same sureness of the folk looks bright and actual by the side of scientific assertions. History, for example, is a very different thing when handed down by father to son as compared with genuine and painstaking research. Almost every day some item in the newspaper, particularly the Point of View columns, shows that there are certainly two histories: the one the writer believes in and the other one. I am surprised that there is not a more vocal attack on the airplane, the atom bomb, and the other accomplishments that man has to his credit in late years. Maybe the chief enemies of these modern things are not given to writing but could argue you down at the country store and prove that most of them are non-existent and the others are signs of man's depravity.

There used to be lots of fun in comparing the rural fellow who went to town and saw the sights and the complacent city fellow who lived right in the midst of wonders and never batted an eye. From extended travels in Kentucky and neighboring states in regions where we used to feel that humanity was slightly behind the procession, I have concluded that there are probably more of these backward people in the good-sized towns and cities. Rightly or wrongly, it is a pretty shabby country cabin that does not have a TV antenna sticking above it; probably the rest have radios, anyway.

In talking about folk ignorance, I am in no sense limiting my remarks to the poor or the illiterate. Some of the so-called educated people whom I have known in my more than a half century in the schoolroom have been just as unconvinced and unconvincible as the remotest outlander of other days. Long ago in this column I mentioned "young fogies" as a reminder that even young people often come to college with their minds already made up on all subjects. They are determined not to learn anything, in any subject that differs from what they learned as very immature children in some cross-roads high school. If the truth were told, their teachers probably had similar ideas and warned their graduates against imbibing new ideas at college. I have heard, in well-to-do homes, enough arguments against colleges to make the government close the whole sorry spectacle of education and can be done with it. I used to think that my generation of college boys and girls had the hardest time ever in trying to overcome a general hostility toward learning; but I have come to feel that even the youngest students today have still a big battle to fight to acquire or keep open mind. Learning is always modest; ignorance is always assured and positive.

ous new growth and flowering. Plants in very each year to stimulate vigorous new growth and flowering. Plants in very fertile or heavily fertilized soil will not have to be pruned as severely to

INSECTS AND DISEASES: Aphids (plant lice) are about the only insect that usually causes serious damage to crope myrtles. They are easily controlled with Malathion or Nictine Sulfate.

Powdery mildew is the most destructive disease attacking crope myrtle, especially in shady locations. It attacks only flower buds and tender new growth, causing them to look as though they had been dipped in flower. Fungicides such as Mildex and Karathane, used every 10 days during trouble periods, are effective. Sulphur used as a "wetttable" spray or fine-grade dusting sulphur is also effective. Spray mainly the new growth.

Sooty mold, the same disease that is so common on gardenia, also sometimes attacks crope myrtle. As with powdery mildew, it is worse in the shade. This fungus gets its start on "honeydew" secreted by such insects as aphids and white fly. If these insects are controlled, the trouble will disappear.

new store will stock in excess of 6,000 different food items, the widest variety of food products available in Obion County and Fulton County. The checkout operation will utilize latest models of motorized equipment. Automatic doors will give entry and exit to the store. Parking facilities will be provided for 120 autos.

The new store will incorporate the latest developments of the nationwide system of Piggly Wiggly supermarkets. The entire store will be color engineered, a technique which designs the entire store layout to provide the most restful and convenient atmosphere for food shopping. This color technique is carried down to the actual colors used on cases and display equipment which is toned to compliment or contrast with merchandise vended from each unit. Lighting is carefully engineered to provide the maximum comfortable illumination with a total absence of irritating glare.

Every piece of equipment, including cases, display fixtures, decorative elements, etc., will be individually designed for the South Fulton store. Design of meat processing facilities, cooling and aging installations, cutting and pre-packaging equipment, is based upon broad research into the most effective methods of meat handling. The same detailed planning goes into each department of the new store.

"Complete supermarket service," stated one Piggly Wiggly executive, "obligates the grocer to a greater responsibility than merely providing a place to stock and display food products." Food shopping is a regular and important necessity for homemakers. We have applied a vast amount of research into the preferences of food shoppers and these preferences play a major part in our planning of this new Piggly Wiggly. We feel that not only must we provide our customers with the best food products available, most economically priced, but must also make the atmosphere of our new store as pleasant as possible so that shopping Piggly Wiggly is not only a convenience and economy, but also an enjoyable experience."

An ad in the Newark Evening Journal said: "Those ladies whose situation induces them to seek a retreat, will do well to call on Mrs. Byrnes on Thompson St., N. Y. where they will find honorable dealings, accompanied with good cheer, good rooms, good nurses as well as a most competent midwife, who likewise attends Ladies at their own residence. Adopts infants when required."

Brady's Gallery, at 643 Broadway, was advertising the "first pictures of the Japanese Embassy." Brady (who was to photograph the Civil War), claimed that his pictures were "the only authentic photographs of them (the Japanese) taken in this country."

A New York Fire Company had tried out a steam engine for a year, and reported that it was "superb, we will defend it against the slurs or rival companies."

St. Louis reported the burning on the 27th of May, of the Steamboat Peerless at the Levee at New Orleans. The Peerless cost $42,000 a year ago and was insured for $20,000.

In Chicago, the PRESS AND TRIBUNE said they had seen the message sent to Abe Lincoln in which he was offered certain help for certain pledges, but that they heard him say: "No, Gentlemen, I have not asked for the nomination, and I will not buy it with pledges. If I am nominated and elected I shall not go into the Presidency as the tool of this man or that or as the property of any faction or clique."

The PRESS also said that Abe Lincoln said his name was Abraham, not Abram, as was most used.

In Boston, the JOURNAL said that "The Democratic presses could find nothing against Lincoln (and they certainly tried) except that he is not handsome."

At the same time, the St. Louis REPUBLICAN said it would not be long until the Republicans would withdraw Lincoln and Hamlin and support Breckinridge and Bell.

admitted on the witness stand that she had been seeing him since signing the statement. She said she had known Emmerson for 10 years and that they had frequently been together. She denied that their relationship was romantic.

Donald Kimbro, a Fulton telephone company employe, testifying for the state, said he telephoned Emmerson and made arrangements for the operation on Mrs. McDade, and gave her $50 to pay for the operation. He said she was gone about an hour, then returned to him and they spent the night at a motel in the Reelfoot Lake area. He said he took her to the hospital when he determined that her condition was serious.

The defense tried to impeach Kimbro's testimony by bringing out that he testified before the coroner's jury that he knew nothing about what caused Mrs. McDade's death.

Dr. H. W. Calhoun, who attended Mrs. McDade at the hospital, said she told him an abortion had been performed on her, and asked, "Am I going to die?" The doctor said he told Mrs. McDade, "I hope not."

Arresting officers testified they found surgical instruments, medicines and a short piece of bailing wire in Emmerson's truck when he was arrested shortly after Mrs. McDade's death.

They charged he used those instruments in performing the operation.

The Obion County Circuit Court room was packed with spectators both days of the sensational trial.

A woman, identified only as a sister of Mrs. McDade, shouted accusations at Emmerson in the court room when the verdict was returned. She was led from the room sobbing hysterically.
